Education Policies

Class registrations must be received at least 10 days prior to the first day of class. Sufficient enrollment will determine justification of holding each class. Written cancellation notices will be emailed to the individuals who have registered at the time a course is cancelled.

Registration must be completed exclusively online by using BrownPaperTickets.com. The link to each class is provided in the calendar. If you would like to pay via credit card, you may do so by clicking the “Registration & Fee” tab. If you would like to register for the class but pay via check, you may do so by clicking the “Registration” tab.

Registration cancellations for all IAAO classes must be made at least 14 working days prior to the first day of class. PAD will accept written cancellations only (phone calls will NOT be accepted). Written cancellations may be faxed to 402-471-5993 or emailed to pat.edu@nebraska.gov. Failure to give the required notification will result in the county or person being billed for the total cost of the class.

If cancellation is necessary due to an emergency after the specified cancellation period, the Property Tax Administrator will review the cancellation request and may approve a refund for good cause.

IAAO Forum 990- Residential Appraising: New Things to Think About

Dates: July 26, 2018

Online Registration: Lincoln

Location: Ferguson House, 700 South 16th Street, Lincoln, NE

Instructor: Brad Moore

Credit Hours: 7 hours

Registration Fee: $150

Textbook: N/A

This seminar is designed to explore some contemporary residential appraising issues as well as some of the more difficult and controversial issues in residential mortgage lending appraisals. Topics that will be covered include:

- Situations where an appraiser may need a different skill set to develop a credible analysis.
- Appraisal problems that require an appraiser to get help or pursue further study.
- Situations where the highest and best use is to remove the residence and redevelop the real estate.
- The need to identify the most likely buyer for the subject and what data will give evidence of that buyer's motivations.

- Methods to extract and support adjustments or adjustment rates in residential quantitative analyses.
- The need for market analysis in residential appraisals and the impact on credibility of a well- prepared analysis and report.
- Development of a market analysis in residential appraisals including sources of data, reliability of data, and statistical tools available in the market to support a market conditions conclusion.
- The need for some appraisal reports to stipulate the strengths and weaknesses and to give the client an idea of the credibility of the results

IAAO Forum 991- Understanding and Using Comparable Transactions

Dates: July 27, 2018

Online Registration: Lincoln

Location: Ferguson House, 700 South 16th Street, Lincoln, NE

Instructor: Brad Moore

Credit Hours: 7 hours

Registration Fee: $150

Textbook: N/A

This forum is designed to enhance the understanding and use of comparable properties. Appraisers use comparable property information every day. The entire appraisal process is dependent on the comparison of data. The analysis of real estate transactions is a critical component in the valuation of real property. Appraisal methodology and techniques are based on the comparison of data. Market analysis, highest and best use analysis, and the three approaches to value—the sales comparison approach, the cost approach, and the income approach—are developed based on the comparison of data.

The proper recognition and identification of what is a comparable, why it has been selected as a comparable, and how the comparable is used is critical to the appraisal process. Improving an appraiser's ability to effectively analyze and select relevant comparable properties will result in better supported, more believable and persuasive appraisals and appraisal reviews. Additionally, an enhanced understanding of the process of selecting and analyzing properties that possess characteristics that may be useful for comparative purposes enables an appraiser to more clearly explain and support the analysis in an appraisal report.
